Project Management

Just Suppose@ provide project management workshops for our clients.

Our project management workshop has been designed with the following objectives in mind:

- ✓ To complete a self assessment to assess current levels of project management abilities
- ✓ To identify what is a project versus project management
- ✓ To introduce the project management life cycle
- ✓ To shape project aims and objectives
- ✓ To consider the management of variables and boundaries
- ✓ To define the scope of the project
- ✓ To consider how to avoid pitfalls
- ✓ Introducing project planning tools and methods
- ✓ Innovative thinking
- ✓ Be able to perform a risk assessment
- ✓ Executing and controlling the project

The workshop is designed to translate theory into practical applications using a project individuals are currently working on.

We have found that many of our clients combine this workshop with our Just Influence workshop, as the two topics go hand in hand, especially when it comes to influencing stakeholders within a project.

In our experience, we find that delegates are able to get the most out of this course if they are able to link it directly to a project they are currently working towards.

Therefore we invite delegates to consider this before arriving at the programme to ensure they are able to take the most from their learning experience.

"It was really valuable to be introduced to a practical/theoretical way to project manage. The influencing/persuasion session is needed for internal projects where we do not always have the authority within the business"
